BOY'S BODY IS FOUND

Corpse Badly Mangled as Result of Attack by Man-Eating Shark.

(Special to The Herald)

Matwan, N. J., July 14.—The body of 12-year-old Lester Stillwell, who was killed by a shark while bathing in Matwan Creek, N. J., on Wednesday, was recovered today. The corpse bore the marks of the fatal attack by the man-eater. The left side of the abdomen was torn open and a big piece of flesh was gone. The intestines were nearly all torn out and the flesh of the right breast was ripped from the bones. The face and limbs were unrecognizable. Watchers believe they have three sharks penned up in the creek and plan to kill them at low tide.

GALE CAUSES GREAT DAMAGE

Georgia and South Carolina Coast Swept.

(Special to The Herald)

Atlanta, Ga., July 14.—A 64-mile gale which swept the Georgia and South Carolina coast last night and early today did great damage. At Charleston, telephone and telegraph wires were destroyed leaving the city isolated. Waves were dashed over the sea wall at Charleston. Many barges and other small craft broke adrift in the harbor. The height of the storm has passed. A negro fisherman at Savannah was carried out to sea and drowned.

GRANDSON OF WATERLOO SAVIOR IS DEAD

Berlin, via London, July 13.—Prince Gebhard Blucher von Wallstatt, grandson of the first and famous Prince Blucher, whose arrival turned the tide in the battle of Waterloo, has died as the result of a fall from his horse.

The grandson of old "Marshal Forward" was no friend of the Prussians. For many years prior to the outbreak of the war he lived in England and in 1829 the Prussian House of Lords declared he had forfeited his seat in that body.

BRITISH BREAK TEUTON FRONT

Carry Second Line of German Defenses For Over Four Miles, Making Enormous Gains

(Special to The Herald)

London, July 14.—Driving forward with the momentum of a battering ram, the British forces on the Somme front have broken the second line of defenses of the Germans over a front of four miles. Official announcement of this enormous gain was made by the war office in its report issued at noon. For 21 hours the German positions had been bombarded with utmost violence by British guns of all calibre before the infantry attacks were launched. Then the English legions rolled forward in irresistible waves overrunning the blasted trenches which had been reduced by shells to a series of irregular craters. Between the Anker and Somme rivers the British pressure has been concentrated, also the Albert-Bapaume highway and the Bray-Bapaume road and it was in this region that the most powerful assaults were delivered. The German troops in front of Bapaume, the immediate objective of the British drive, have fought to hold their lines, being under orders to fight to the death, but they have been unable to withstand the severe blows of the British.

It is presumed that he fell from the train.

Friday was pay day for the men employed on the Boston and Maine railroad in this city.

C., and in danger of being entirely destroyed, coast guard headquarters at Washington was notified this afternoon. The Hector was damaged in the 64-mile gale off the southern coast last night. The report of the Hector's distress was sent by wireless by the steamer Natchez of Savannah. The coast guard immediately ordered the Cutter Seminole, now cruising off the South Carolina coast, to rush to the assistance of the Hector.

MAY TRAIN HERE

The last issue of the York Transcript has the following: "The Red Cross class in 'First Aid to the Injured' and Home Nursing which the Red Cross headquarters ask all women to take and for which 30 members had been enrolled has to be abandoned as the York hospital offers no facilities for accommodating the Red Cross nurse, nor for the necessary demonstrations in bed making and care of a sick room. The young women intending to take the course and get their diplomas will therefore go to Portsmouth for their instruction."

No arrangement has been made with the Portsmouth hospital, as far as can be learned for the training of the class mentioned above.

CHAMPIONS WHITEWASH CONSOLIDATION TEAM

Coal Company Loses to the P. A. C. by a 3 to 0 Score in a Fast, Interesting Game--Runs All Scored in the Fourth Inning

The Champions climbed a little higher in their percentage last evening by defeating the Consolidation Coal Company by a score of 3 to 0, and are now but one full game behind the Morley Button Company, the present league leaders. By losing their game the C. C. C. dropped from their position in the fourth place into fifth, with a percentage of .444.

The game was played in thirty-five minutes and several interesting and close plays were completed. Tommie Lynskey, who has been having the misfortune all the season of hitting them into the hands of the fielders, broke away from his hard luck last evening, singled and scored a runner with the hit. All of the runs were made in the fourth inning, on three hits and a sacrifice, assisted by an error. Howard and Brown pulled off a fast double play in the second after Walter Woods had made the only hit that Leary was touched for. Both pitchers were working well, Driscoll passing but one man and Leary, none. The Clamps played air-tight ball behind Hill and in each inning only three men faced him.

The Game
1st Inning--Harrington grounded out at first, W. Brackett to Howard. Collins was fanned. Able popped to Leary. NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NO RUNS.

W. Brackett walked and stole second, but was out at third. Woods to Rutledge when he attempted to steal. ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, NO RUNS.

3rd Inning--Gorman fled to Lynskey. Kelly and Driscoll each grounded out to W. Brackett and were thrown out at first, the latter being one pretty play. NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NO RUNS.

WITH THE SPORTS

The ring game has never known a badder fighter nor a gamer one than Kid McCoy, said Willie Lewis, former welterweight champion and trainer for Frank Moran during recent bouts.

"There were some wonderful fights before the Kid's time and some have flashed along since then. I've seen the best of them perform during the past 15 years, but my hat is off to the Kid. He was the greatest of the lot in all around ring skill."

"The Kid pulled a thousand tricks in the ring--but never the same trick twice. He was always using his head and that brain of his, added to his amazing skill as a boxer, his great courage and his ability to stand up under punishment, lifted him almost to the top of the pugilistic world, although in the hey-day of his career he rarely fought at over 100 pounds."

"He beats a lot about the gameness of such and such a fighter. I wonder if any man every displayed the courage the Kid showed in his last fight against Petty Officer Curran in London some three or four years ago."

"I had a ring side seat for that affair and I went to cheer for the Kid, but I never for a moment thought he had an earthly chance against Curran. The former sailor then was the fighting sensation of England. He was a big bruiser with a powerful punch and quite a bit of skill. He had been knocking 'em dead right and left and supposed to him was Kid McCoy, then 16 years old; but the Kid McCoy of other days, but the McCoy who was the result of nearly ten years of free and easy living; a fat Kid McCoy, so out of condition in comparison to sleek Curran that it was ludicrous. McCoy's spasmodic training for the fight he had taken part in in New York in 1911 had reduced some of his excessive girth--but not much of it."

"While the folks around the ring, who were vainly offering 10 and 15 to 1 that Curran would win, I walked to the Kid's corner."

"What's the idea?" I asked the Kid. "Aren't you getting a bit old for that?"

"The Kid grinned. 'The idea is that I need the money. Now this Curran is a tough one and I'm not as good as I used to be. But I'll slip you this tip Willie, I'm going to beat him.'"

"The fight began. The trim Curran rushed out and tapped the Kid a couple of times, then swung a terrific right to the jaw. The Kid went down for the count of six. A minute or so later Curran hit him again and again the Kid went down."

"Six or seven times during the first three rounds the Kid hit the mat. In the fourth Curran drove one against the Kid's mouth. McCoy went down as though felled by a crowbar. I thought it was all over but the Kid was on his feet at the count of nine and he stalked through until the bell. 'The Kid came out from his corner near the fifth, with a battered looking face, but with a peculiar grin--the grin that other men have seen before and never have forgotten; the grin that showed the aroused fighting spirit of the great McCoy.'"

"Now you English whiffet, my turn is coming McCoy spluttered as he walked toward the confident Curran."

"And the Kid whipped a right to

TRAPSHOOTERS ARE ALWAYS PREPARED

Thousands Have Answered the Call to the Colors, More Are Ready, But There Will Always Be Enough Left For the State Tournaments.

Thousands of trapshooters have answered the call to the colors, and many thousands more are prepared in every sense of the word to respond to any further summons from Our Uncle Samuel to "clean up" Mexico. While others have been snooting preparedness from the house tops, trapshooters' brigade went right along and trained the eye and arm by firing at the inanimate objects--for being able to shoot accurately is the main idea of preparedness.

While war, or even the talk of war, will decrease the interest in many forms of sports, it will give trapshooting its greatest boom. The day is coming when it will be just as necessary to be able to handle a gun and shoot accurately as it will be to take other forms of exercise. As many persons look up the sport of trapshooting during the year of 1915 as in the four years previous, and 1916 promises to outdo all other years.

As many persons participated in the beginners' day shoots in June--persons who had never before handled a gun--as entered through the novice ranks last year. Nearly every one desires to learn the proper method of shooting, and the easiest and quickest way to learn is to appear before the traps at some gun club. There are always men there who are willing to give instruction.

Furthering the project of teaching the idea of shooting a trapshooting school was opened in Atlantic City in the spring, and on an average 100 novices each week have been given instruction there.

Curran's head that forced the Englishman to back away.

"During the fifth and sixth rounds the Kid fought slowly and cautiously. He had played for time and for a drink. Evidently he had felt himself in need of a stimulant after the fourth session. None was in his corner so he sent out one of his seconds."

"The liquor arrived just as the seventh round began. The Kid decided he couldn't wait for it until the end of the round. He knew that he couldn't get the referee to salt the bout while he lay flat. So he used his shrewd brain and got the drink while the round was on. This is how:

"He told his seconds to pour out a saucer of the whisky and place it right under the ropes near his corner of the ring. As soon as this was done, McCoy walked around in the neighborhood of the ring, and then left an opening for a Curran punch. Although the Englishman's swing missed by some six inches McCoy went to the floor--within easy reaching distance of the drink."

"While the referee totted off the seconds, the Kid lying on his stomach, tossed the whisky down his throat."

"Now, my friend, I'm going to hammer you somewhat," said the Kid to Curran. And he kept his word."

"Never in all my ring career have I seen a conchuck as amazing as that which McCoy staged from the tenth round. He had let Curran wear himself out up to the time he started after the Englishman. He battered him from one corner to the other and reduced that once smiling face to a pulp. He didn't fight with all the old speed of other years, but he fought a fight, that was all things considered,

AMERICAN LINE OF U-BOATS PROPOSED

Undersea Fleet that Will Put the Deutschland in the Pigmy Class is Now Being Agitated

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—Shattering of the British starvation blockade will soon be attempted by a fleet of giant undersea freighters, flying the American flag.

Inspired by the success of the German sub-sea freighter Deutschland, Manager Paul Hilken of the Ocean Thederei, Deutschland owners, is forming an American corporation to make undersea ships that will put the Deutschland in the pigmy class. Simon Lake, submarine inventor, who fully a year ago predicted in a scientific paper that "we shall probably see some form of cargo-carrying submarine constructed as blockade runners," will act in an advisory capacity to the new corporation and permit use of his patents.

Hilken gave the United Press the following statement of his plans today: "Capt. Simon Lake, undoubtedly the pioneer in the design of successful submarines, and P. C. Hilken, American manager of the Ocean Thederei, Bremen, are considering the advisability of forming a company to operate, under the American flag, a service similar to that begun by the Ocean Thederei with its submarine freighter Deutschland. The success of the trip of the Deutschland, and the huge profits which are already assured—the cost of that vessel being practically paid by her first voyage—and those who are planning the new venture to expect it to prove successful financially Reception Day Aboard the Deutschland

Baltimore, July 13.—Unloading of the cargo of the German super-submarine Deutschland was completed early today and the ship's rise revealed that the estimates of her size had been exaggerated. Instead of being more than 300 feet long and 30 feet wide her length is not more than 250 feet and her width is less than 25 feet. Her overall draft, figured submerged, shows that she needs at least 32 feet for complete submergence.

Through all the feverish activities of the last hours of the unloading, the tug Thomas V. Timmins played the strong beams of a powerful searchlight all about, sweeping the waters, the shore lines and the Deutschland's deck. A smaller powered searchlight which had been set up on a motorboat reached corners that were beyond the Timmins' light.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, is expected to come to Baltimore today to inspect the Deutschland. Mayor James H. Preston will take luncheon with the ambassador and Carl A. Luderitz, the German consul here, and afterward will get his first view of the interior of the submarine. This evening the mayor will entertain at dinner at his home Count von Bernstorff, Mr. Luderitz, Capt. Paul Koenig of the Deutschland and other distinguished guests.

The crew of the Deutschland decided to turn over to the Red Cross fund the $10,000 gift for valor from a New Yorker.

else statement of its great natural advantage. The address of Mr. Sulloway was freely commented upon by members of the house in a most favorable manner and it has placed the yard before the country in a most advantageous light and is bound to result in a great benefit. Speaking of the matter Mr. Sulloway said: "I think the talk that I made is bound to result in a great benefit to the yard. It has swept away a number of imaginary obstacles that have stood in the way. Particularly among the new membership of the house, it was an eye-opener. I confidently expect to get a new dry dock for that yard capable of taking care of any ship that floats. If I do not get it in the short session, I certainly will in the first session of the 65th congress. At that time our party will be back in control. In all human probability, and the task will be easier. Portsmouth cannot be kept down in our coming novel expansion. No other harbor possesses the depth of water on the Atlantic coast or has such natural advantages for a dry dock of huge dimensions. I intend to labor unceasingly to get the Portsmouth navy yard in a position where it can build anything from a ship's launch to a great dreadnought. The harbor at Portsmouth is the only one on the Atlantic or Pacific coast that does not require constant dredging and which has not cost thousands and thousands of dollars annually to keep the channel open and water deep enough to admit the passing up of ships. The channel at Portsmouth is cut in the solid rock and is as clean as a whistle. There is not a shovel full of mud or silt from the yard to the ocean."

GARBAGE FIGHT ON AT HAMPTON

BEACH RESIDENTS MAY FORCE THE TOWN AUTHORITIES TO TAKE ACTION

The power of the state authorities of New Hampshire will be invoked to compel the selection of Hampton to care for the garbage of that resort unless some agreement is reached at a conference to be held between them and a committee from the Hampton Board of Trade, which takes place on Saturday.

The beach residents complain that the collection of the garbage this season has been wholly inadequate and charge the town authorities with negligence in not providing better service. A sharp controversy has ensued and the matter was discussed at length at a recent board of trade meeting. A committee consisting of President J. Frank James of the board, and other members were appointed to take the matter up.

They are determined to go to the State Board of Health of New Hampshire in case their demands are not granted. What the outcome will be is being watched with eager interest by cottagers.

BRAVE WOMAN RESCUED THREE FROM DROWNING

REFUSED TO GIVE HER NAME AFTER PULLING THREE CHILDREN FROM WATER ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

Three children, between the ages of seven and ten years, owe their lives to a Portsmouth woman who went into the water after them on Wednesday evening. She refused to give her name to Police Officer Murphy, who reached the bank of the river a few moments after she had brought the three youngsters safely to the shore. One of the children, she said, was hers, the other two being the children of a near neighbor.

Shortly before 8.00 o'clock on Wednesday evening, the three children, attracted to the water front by the sight of the cool water, attempted to cool themselves off by bathing their feet on some steps leading to the water off Meacham street at the foot of Pickering street. The tide was very nearly high and in some manner all three children slipped from the steps into the water which was several feet deep and the children were being swept rapidly up the river by the tide. The woman who finally made the rescue, was but a short distance from the steps and she plunged into the water, completely clothed, and at last succeeded in drawing them to the shore; going completely under the surface of the water several times.

Officer Murphy and another gentleman, saw the woman struggling in the water, clinging to the three children, and they hurried to the scene, but she had gained the shore before they reached her. The children were apparently none the worse for their experience, although badly frightened, and all efforts to learn the identity of either of the children or the woman resulted in failure.

GREAT SAN ANTONIO EXPOSITION IN 1918

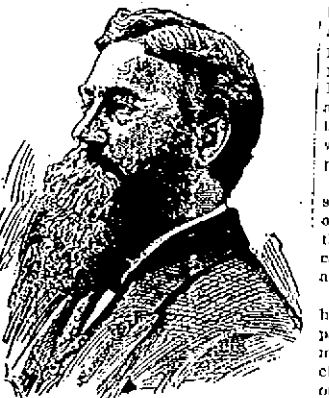

San Antonio, July 13.—Texas which has a history 100 years older than those of Virginia and Massachusetts, will celebrate the 200th birthday of the founding of this, its largest city with a Pan-American exposition here in 1918.

It will be 200 years in 1918 since the Franciscan Fathers came up out of the heart of Mexico to establish at San Antonio an outpost of Christian civilization. Prior to that time many exploring parties had passed through what was then an untamed wilderness, and no formal effort was made to colonize or develop the country until 1718.

The exposition will be devoted primarily to developing closer commercial and social relations between the United States and the other republics of the western hemisphere.

DR. GRADY'S FREE DAY

His Offices Are Crowded Until 8 O'Clock at Night.

Patients constantly calling until 8 o'clock at night. Saturday will be another free day, and that Dr. Grady may be able to see every patient who calls, and no one be disappointed, the office will be open until 5 in the evening. The free services apply to all old and new, as well as former patients who desire further treatment. Remember that no matter what your disease is, you are entitled to the doctor's service free until cured.

Dr. Grady has over 2000 living witnesses who are ready and willing to tell anyone what he has done for them. Remember Saturday is a free day and the place 725 Elm. Cor. Merrimack Street, Pembroke Bldg., Manchester, N. H.

It stands to reason you will get better treatment and more speedy cures from Dr. Grady who has been treating NERVOUS AND CHRONIC DISEASES exclusively for 25 years, than from those who have only a case occasionally. Names of patients never used. They are sacredly confidential at

DR. GRADY'S MEDICAL INSTITUTE, Manchester, N. H.

Practically every other section of the union has epitomized its own development and its relations to the republic in expositions that have provided of lasting benefit.

Texas believe that the time is at hand for an exposition which will result in the cementing of the Pan-American relations for all time to come.

They feel that the European war offers now and will continue to offer after the war has ended, unrivaled opportunities for the cultivation of more intimate associations with the nations to the south. It is expected that at this exposition will be displayed not only the products of Texas and the rest of the United States but those of every country in Spanish-American.

The San Antonians feel that their city because of its cosmopolitan population and its long continued friendship with Mexico and other Latin-American nations, is peculiarly a place where the people of South and Central America will find a ready welcome and will feel perfectly at home. It is a city that reflects the pan-American viewpoint more than any city in the U. S. It is a city where Spanish is spoken as much as English, while from a climatic standpoint it is typical of Latin-America.

Texas behind the exposition have laid their plans carefully and already the proposed exposition has attracted national as well as international attention. President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing have given the exposition their cordial endorsement. Recently a delegation of Texas citizens journeyed to Washington to explain their plans to the President, the secretary of state and other high officials. They returned to Texas, highly pleased with their reception and the pledges of substantial support received.

President Wilson later in a telegram to a San Antonio friend said: "The Pan-American exposition which you are planning to hold in San Antonio in 1918, will, I hope, attract wide attention and support."

Secretary Lansing characterized San Antonio as "the best exemplification in this country of Pan-Americanism, in which we are peculiarly interested at the present time and which is drawing the various republics of this hemisphere together."

There was recently introduced in congress a joint resolution authorizing President Wilson to issue a proclamation inviting the participation of the South and Central American republics in the exposition. The resolution was unanimously and favorably reported by the senate committee of industrial expositions, which in its report said:

"It is especially appropriate that such an exposition should be held in San Antonio. The city was founded by the Franciscan Fathers in 1718, and for more than 100 years was under Spanish rule. With its gradual expansion into a large manufacturing and distributing center its trade with the Spanish-American people to the south rapidly increased. Today it enjoys a wide commercial relationship with these people. It is already, therefore an exemplification of practical Pan-Americanism and presents admirable facilities for an exposition of the character now contemplated."

Organizations like the Pan-American union and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, devoted especially to the promotion of Pan-American relations are lending valuable aid to the enterprise.

One of the purposes of the exposition will accomplish will be the rehabilitation of the historic missions in and around San Antonio, to prevent their crumbling into dust. With the exception of the battle scarred Alamo, which too, was originally a monastery, the five missions in San Antonio have been greatly neglected in recent years and today they stand as a beautiful pathetic ruins to remind the chance passerby of their grandeur when the Franciscan Fathers were battling against heavy odds to establish a Christian civilization in the wilderness of what was 200 years ago the northern part of Mexico.

The Texans plan to have the missions completely rebuilt by the close of next year, and to assist them in this work, students of early American and Spanish history and eminent architects are being consulted.

There are no pages in American history richer in romance than those pages which tell of the early development of the southwest by the Franciscan monks, who carried a sword in one hand and a Bible in the other, and came first with Columbus and planted the cross along with the flag of Spain.

The Franciscans were zealous in their missionary work among the natives and when a Spanish settlement was made they, after founding their mission work there, would expand their field of operations and establish another mission dedicated to an honest saint. This made then what was a good fortification and protection from tribes of Indians hostile to the religious converts and gave the means of safe religious and secular instruction.

Because the valley of San Antonio then known as the Valley of the Heart's Delight, was so similar to the mild weather to which they were accustomed in Mexico, the friars determined to make San Antonio their headquarters and soon more of the brothers came up from Mexico. The first mission was the Alamo or Mission San Antonio de Valero, which because of its bath in the blood of patriotic Texans, has made up place for itself in history and which on this account is in an excellent state of

FIXING UP ROAD BETWEEN MANCHESTER AND CONCORD

Manchester, July 13.—Now that summer traffic is at its height and hundreds of tourists from other cities are passing through Manchester en route to the White Mountains, the state has started to fix up the road between here and Concord. Three places are already blocked to traffic while construction work is in progress.

The first stretch above Manchester is at the junction of the Hooksett boulevard and Webster street. About an eighth of a mile has been torn up and a new road is being built. In order to get by it is necessary for a machine to follow up the car tracks. There is imminent danger of accidents for two machines could not pass in this narrow path.

Just before reaching Hooksett, another path has been dug up. This time a detour has been made in order to help the autoist and while it is nothing extra it is considered safer than the first.

In the vicinity of Allenstown another stretch has been torn up and the state is busily engaged in putting a new surface over the old foundation. Like the first, the autoist is compelled to take to the tracks.

In Massachusetts it is permissible to build only half a road at a time. Then the autoist has some chance to get by. The road to Concord has been in a terrible condition for some time past.

preservation today. But not so at San Antonio. San Jose, Concepcion, San Francisco and San Juan.

Cardinal Gibbons is pleased with the idea of celebrating the 200th anniversary of the coming of the Franciscan fathers, the reconstruction of the famous monasteries and the honoring of the memory of those brave pioneers. He has pledged the active cooperation of the Catholic church and has promised the Texans that if his life is spared and his strength is equal to the task he will be at San Antonio in 1918.

The exposition of 1918 will picture the daring expeditions of De Soto, Onate, Coronado, Mendoza, Cabeza and others in various portions of the trans-Mio Grande. It will portray the planting of the picturesque settlements, composed of missions and villages from the Rio Grande Valley, through what are now New Mexico, Arizona and California to the Pacific coast. It will present these and other phases of American history that have been but little emphasized in the ordinary narratives of the schools.

The exposition will recall the work of a mysterious power that blinded Charles V. and Philip II to the possibilities of Spanish expansion above the Rio Grande. Had these monarchs devoted half the energy they expended in attempting to build a European empire to the development of their New World holdings, holdings which other countries could have at that time disputed, but with the greatest difficulty it is beyond any human mind to measure the changes that would have occurred in subsequent history.

The exposition will remind the world that it was at San Antonio 80 years ago that the world famous tragedy of the Alamo occurred. The story of the Alamo is one of the tragic incidents of San Antonio's glorious traditions.

Here in the grim old chapel, fortress 153 Anglo-Saxons, died to a man fighting for their liberties against the Mexican despot Santa Anna. From Feb. 22, 1836 until March 6, 1836, Col. William Barrett Travis, aided by that daring frontiersman James Bowie and that backwoods philosopher, state-mann and soldier, David Crockett, and the noted little garrison, held at bay a Mexican army, variously estimated at from 4,000 to 6,000 men. While the siege was at its height Col. Travis sent out this call for help:

Commandancy of the Alamo, Bexar, Feb. 24, 1836.

To the people of Texas and all Americans in the world:

"Fellow citizens and compatriots: I am besieged by a thousand or more of the Mexicans under Santa Anna. I have sustained a continual bombardment and cannonade for 21 hours and have not lost a man. The enemy has demanded a surrender at discretion, otherwise the garrison are to be put to the sword if the fort is taken. I have answered the demand with a cannon shot and our flag still waves from the walls. I shall never surrender or retreat. Then I call on you in the name of liberty, or patriotism, or everything dear to the American character to come to our aid with all dispatch. The enemy is receiving reinforcements daily and will no doubt increase to three or four thousand in a few days. If this call is neglected I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible and die like a soldier who never forgets what is due to his own honor and that of his country, Victory or death."

(Signed) William Barrett Travis, Lieut. Colonel Commander.

About three days before the end of the war, the point of his sword. He invited every man who had resolved to stay and die to stay across the line, giving all who might so desire the privilege of endeavoring to escape. Immediately all but one man who fled, stepped across the line. Col. Bowie was ill but asked his comrades to lift his cot across the line, the other who were ill did the same. On the morning of March 6, 1836, came the crowning catastrophe. Overwhelming thousands strong, swarmed over the parapets and into the fort. One by one the remaining Texans died fighting to the last.

Soon after the battle of the Alamo the Mexican dictator was defeated, his power was broken and Texas assumed its place among the nations of the world. With the annexation of Texas to the U. S. in 1845 the city and state began a development that has each year assumed a more rapid and comprehensive sweep. One-fifth of the people of Texas are still Mexican and Spanish.

Texas with an area today one-fourth larger than the German empire is fifth in population among the American commonwealths. It is the first state in cotton, cottonseed, cattle, hauled, pecans, butter on farms, cotton gin machinery and winter vegetables.

Cost of Living Investigation.

In an effort to throw light on the question of the cost of living and to find means for the correction of an abuse that is believed to exist New York state is to have an investigation by a joint legislative committee relative to the distribution of milk, eggs, butter, poultry and other farm products. It is suspected that there is a combination, or a series of combinations, that control distribution in the interest of the members and to the detriment of consumers. The charge is made that this control is very powerful and that its operations result in depriving the farmers of some of the profits they should have, at the same time compelling consumers to pay more than they should be obliged to for what they eat.

And so an investigation is to be had to find out all about it. This is well, provided that the alleged evil exists and that it can be removed by investigation and such action as may follow in case the conditions disclosed warrant action through the courts or in the halls of legislation.

But while it is certain that the cost of farm products increases greatly between the farm and the consumer, it is by no means certain that this is the result of combination. A great deal of the increase is due to the demands of consumers, who in this day want a great deal of waiting upon, and no one has yet been found who is willing to do this work for nothing. Though the government has taken a long step toward relieving the situation by means of the parcel post.

What the use of this will do toward reducing the cost of living has been set forth many times through the columns of the press and by the postal authorities, but apparently this means is not being availed of to the extent anticipated. The people have become so accustomed to being waited on by the grocerman and the marketman, many of their orders being transmitted by telephone and the purchases being "charged up" till they get ready to pay, that most of them will not submit to the trifling inconvenience involved in the use of the parcel post.

If there is a combination in New York state or elsewhere that is taxing the people by controlling the distribution of food stuffs it should be exposed and broken up, but there will never be a way found for doing away with the legitimate costs of distribution for a large part of which the people themselves are responsible. When they buy food they demand a lot of service which should not be left out of the account when the cost of living is pondered.

The Atlantic fleet is maneuvering in the vicinity of Block Island this week, while most of the soldiers are resting on their arms on the sand plains of the Mexican border. The tools of war are very much in evidence, but conditions and the way the president is talking are less warlike than they were a short time ago. And now that the country has had a genuine scare, there is evidence to indicate that it is not so anxious for war as it thought it was, albeit it is ready to defend its rights and its territory and will continue to do so. And this fact appears to be recognized in Mexico as well as in the United States.

The German submarine which landed at Baltimore the other day removed the doubts of the skeptical and proved that these wonderful boats are equal to bigger things than they were believed to be. The vessel came on an errand of peace and not of war, bringing a cargo of dye stuffs greatly needed in this country. On its return it will take a cargo of materials needed in Germany's military operations, and if it gets home as safely as it came over—and under—it will be a truly wonderful achievement.

Last Sunday in Detroit, where the World's Salesmanship Congress has been in session this week, many of the members occupied pulpits of the city churches and preached sermons, if such they could be called, on the ethics of salesmanship. Was this carrying religion into business or business into religion?

The mayor of Boston, Mr. Curley, has decorated the captain of the German submarine at Baltimore and has sent word to the Kaiser about a few good moves to make to win the war. The Elks' convention, if one judged from the Boston press, was in the shape of a testimonial to Mayor Curley.

It will be well for our Republican friends to learn that the contests within the party should be good natured. Election comes after the primary. These two and three cornered fights should not be marked with bitterness.

President Wilson is soon to hold an executive session with Secretary Tumulty to decide about the question of accepting the Democratic nomination.

It looks like some bungling at Concord in handling the militia situation.

AN AMERICAN SOUL NEEDED

The Failings of Our Democracy Vividly Pictured by Shoals Speakers.

Arrangement of the program of the Unitarian Conference gave an opportunity to include in it a compelling talk by Rev. George F. Patterson, minister at Kalamazoo, Mich., at present the most remote place represented on Star Island. Introducing his subject, "Religion and Patriotism" he said that we could all remember when we possessed a certain spirit as a country. The old Fourth of July celebrations met a common response in the hearts of the people, a spirit which has all but disappeared. A reason for its disappearance lies in our great national prosperity. We have for years been the land of great opportunity, a land which to the alien has been a right to live and develop in freedom. He has found no bent on the acquisition of money and he has sought the fever. Opportunity to him has meant the opportunity to get which is legitimate, provided it is accompanied by a realization of the privilege of giving. A good democracy is impossible without both getting and giving.

If we can accurately measure the religion of a people we can estimate their patriotism because they are bound to be very like. If their religion is cruel and vindictive so will their patriotism be, because both grow out of the same deep sources of the human soul. Religion, as considered by Mr. Patterson, is a matter not of creeds but of that inherent, deep, and unmovable something in the heart of man which is the very source of all creeds.

Ignoring Our Trusts

We have given little thought as to the success and happiness which have come to us with such wonderful ease. We are sharing but not originating prosperity. We lose our identity and fall into a static condition. The principle of development is not static but evolving. What should characterize American civilization? Freedom, liberty, opportunity left to themselves, soon lose their identity and force. A country is only as strong as her greatest weakness. Our lack of army and army equipment are deplorable but, in their last analysis, are but superficial. Greed, greed and material dishonesty are basic and are the things, which if long continued, will grind us to powder beneath the heel of some enemy. Our national strength lies not in our armor plates, submarines and dreadnaughts, but in our love for our country as our home.

We have certain great national ideals which we must keep. Our public schools demand unfailing fostering. We must always hold to our ideal of free religion. We too often confuse freedom to think with freedom from thought. Our national government must always have sufficient strength to care for its people everywhere, provided they have not violated another country's laws. Preparedness should be a national policy based upon a deep and abiding love for the truth, rather than be used as a political issue, an ammunition for any political party. Patriotism gets beyond the material things which can be weighed and measured, to the feeling for our country which lies deeper than all words.

With the world in its present state of war this seems easy. The test comes in times of peace and prosperity. A democracy is a great co-operative business not only to get wealth out of but to put worth into. If democracy fails it is an evidence of our unwillingness to get under our own individual responsibilities. This country needs a great common national consciousness, a national self, an American soul.

The Tenement House Problem

The discussion of the problem of the foreigner was continued Tuesday afternoon with an address on "The Foreigner in America," by Rev. Abraham M. Ribbany, pastor of the Church of the Disciples in Boston, a man whom American recognizes as one of the most distinguished foreigners who have developed under her citizenship. Because it is a vital question, said Mr. Ribbany, this is a problem of perpetual interest, and one which will grow as the close of the war brings a greater influx of people to our shores. The presence of so many millions of foreigners is very disturbing to many native-born citizens who do not mean to be narrow-minded or inhospitable, but who fear for America's institutions. Several dangers are urged by those who are jealous of the country's safety. The gregarious habit of foreigners in general, the gathering together in our large centers of population like a city within a city, would tend to militate against the culture and refinements of this country. This habit of living creates the tenement house problem, yet unsolved. Mr. Ribbany pointed out the value of the foreigner's habit of gregariousness and drew his proof from his own experience. Spencer says that when an organism is entirely antagonistic to its environment the organism must die. Mr. Ribbany landed in New York without money and unfamiliar with American speech and American customs. In a Syrian colony he found the necessary link between the old

CURRENT OPINION

Peace With Honor a Fraudulent and Hypocritical Phrase

Of all the phrases inspired as weak, silly apologies for war the one "peace with honor" is the most fraudulent and hypocritical and for this reason the back politicians' prime favorite. There is not a phrase of high or low degree in the whole bourgeois aggregation of patriots who has the courage and honesty to tell the truth and to announce boldly and unequivocally that he stands for war. The swashbucklers find it necessary to qualify their preference for war to peace, and "The Honor of the Nation" invariably figures in their hypocritical phrase and false pretenses.

What a ghastly lie and unmitigated hypocrisy! The peace they favor with honor is pure invention forced upon them by necessity.

Socialism stands for peace—the peace that comes with justice and is crowned with honor.—By Eugene V. Debs, Famous Socialist.

and the new, which gave him help and encouragement until he was fitted to go forth and seek his heritage. This is the counterpart of thousands of similar cases. But for the natural colonizing inclination of foreigners, America would find herself dealing with great numbers of dependents who are now befriended by their fellow countrymen. The foreigner is not responsible for his housing in the wretched tenement houses. The native born landlord is the guilty one.

Some Soap Bubble Dangers

A third danger to our country is said to be the draining away of its wealth by the sending of large sums across the seas. There is no cause to fear because of the American wealth being shipped away when it compared in amount with the incomes from which it is subtracted. Often the little native home was mortgaged to secure passage money which the hopeful emigrant has been unable to pay. The amount sent back home is invariably a small fraction of the amount earned and spent here in this country. The foreigner has been an encouragement to the finance of America.

The foreigner, the Syrian, for example is a spendthrift here. He wants to spend money because he has it. He must be taught economy and made a conqueror of circumstances. The cheap theatre, the cheap newspaper, the saloon, the various devices to tempt away his money in small coins, are strong arguments to him which the New Englander, in many instances, succeeded in conquering.

The foreigner is a factor in political corruption and has been classed as dangerous. It is doubtless true that foreigners do sell their votes, but it is equally true that native-born Americans buy them. If we study national political history and point out the corrupt practices, we do not find foreign names among them. The new American does not know enough for such generalship which requires centuries of preparation.

A Few Exaggerated Fears

Puritan Protestantism, expressed by a few of its disciples, fears the religion of the alien. Since our immigrants are now so largely from Catholic countries, this would seem to mean Catholicism. No single instance has ever been substantiated where a church has clubbed together to in any way undermine the institutions of the Republic. The majority of Catholics and the majority of Protestants mean to live on friendly terms. The loyalty of the average Catholic to this country cannot be shaken. The majority of the adherents of the adherents of the Roman church do as much for America as the citizens of old New England stock. The more we extend the hand of fellowship to them the less the danger of friction.

The china that, because he does not know the real value of freedom and citizenship, he will grasp its plenitude but shirk its responsibilities, has been much exaggerated. Again Mr. Ribbany compared the alien with the native-born. The foreigner may have been a pleasure-seeker on the Sabbath, but where are the sons of the Pilgrims and Puritans on that day? The American Sabbath, one of the most beautiful institutions of the world, has been vulgarized not only by the foreigners, who make it a festival, but by its native sons.

The foreigner is here, whatever we think of him. The staggering question is what to do with him. He cannot be crushed into a unit and deal with as one man. There is no one remedy, no panacea, for all are different and have differing needs.

The Human View of the Matter

Mr. Ribbany gave one or two general suggestions on facing the problem. We must take a reasonable view of the racial feeling which exists in us all. A victory over this narrow sense is a great victory for civilization. We must feel for the foreigner as a man, a human being struggling to attain to higher things. Again, there is too much sentimentalism toward the foreigner. Some people, largely reformers, are fond of telling him that he is equal to the best stock in America. It is a mistake to make him "think more highly of himself than he ought to think." We do him an injustice when we tell a frightened, dirty foreigner that he is just as good as a native merely because he is human. We rob him of all its value and rob him of his own ambition. We should teach him that there is something in America in see and that his own merits will find for him a position of equality. Above all, do not look America down, as some reformers do, to encourage the foreigner. It gives him false impressions.

The natural law of selection working in this country is helping to purify the question. Nature's burden is not only to push forward the strong but also to eliminate the weak, and in the social order is a similar law. The foreigner who proves unimprovable dies socially. The child in school soon comes home imbued with new ideas and his parents grow more and more strange to him. He learns unaccustomed refinements and, though he loves his father, he cannot longer follow him as a guide. With the death of the father go his foreign ideas; the boy has become an American.

Come to New Hampshire

The continued attacks of man-eating sharks upon bathers and swimmers along the Atlantic coast, spreading well-grounded terror to the seashore resorts where people go to enjoy the bathing, is something heretofore unknown. Several victims are on the lists who have been devoured by sharks, these man-eaters coming in from the sea and invading shallow water of the depth of not more than four feet. The entire Atlantic coast has been thrown into a panic by the appearance of sharks at various points, and it would be wise for bathers to exercise the utmost care in selecting their bathing ground.

Better come to the inland waters of New Hampshire for bathing, where there are no sea devils to cause alarm or inflict injury, and draw vigor, content, pleasure and ozone from our pure air, which circles the mountains, lakes and rivers. The splendors afforded by the changing scenes of cloud-tipped mountains of placid lakes, winding rivers and streams, of hill and dale are vastly superior to the one aspect afforded by the sea. Go to the latter for its salt-laden and vigorous air if you choose, and to observe the varying humors of the mighty waters, but have a care not to trespass upon shark-infested waters. It is probable that means will be devised for shutting off the waters occupied by bathers from the remainder of the sea by resort to wire netting so as to insure absolute safety. This will have to be done in order to soothe the fears of bathers which have been aroused by the depredations of sharks within the last few days.—Manchester Mirror.

AMERICAN DIES TO HELP THE ALLIES

LIEUT. A. GOODWILL, SPALDING

A. Goodwill Spaulding, adopted son of the late A. G. Spaulding, was killed in action with the huskies in the Pacific this month. He was on business in England when the war broke out, and he promptly enlisted as a private in the Coldstream Guards. In December, 1915, he was made a lieutenant for meritorious conduct under fire and then went to the front.

LIKES THE ROAD NOW

The Old York Transcript in its issue this week printed the following concerning the Noble's Island highway: "The War, which was declared a few weeks ago against the road over Noble's Island in Portsmouth, has been declared off, because the city of Portsmouth has made good, and the highway from the toll bridge to the railroad bridge is now in splendid condition. It seems that even before was declared by residents of Kittery and York, money had been appropriated to make repairs there, but on account of some hitch somewhere, it had not been used. However, it evidently required a little publicity to help the thing along and the results are certainly worth all it cost.

"As we understand the situation in regard to this highway, the Boston & Maine claim to own it, but that Portsmouth should keep it in repair. This may or may not be so, but it certainly would seem that a railroad with nerve enough to charge a toll for the privilege of riding across the toll bridge, would be willing to at least go fifty-fifty on the repairs of the short strip of road the other side of their antiquated structure.

"Anyhow, the road is in fine condition now, and owners of automobiles can rest assured that danger of broken machines is now past."

THE OLD BOYS

These old boys ride with the young today, tide by their side like phantoms gray, the old that were there in the long ago. To answer the cry of the Alamo, to leap with courage and take the wall. While the dead lips rasp with that ghastly call.

The old boys hunt with the young off there. For the cut-throat's haunt and the bandit's lair.

They spring to the saddle as long ago. When they answered the call of the Alamo.

Spring to the side of the young to rush. At their country's side through the endless bush.

Of the mesa-lands and the cactus brush. Like the charge of the days of long ago.

They are up and away, by the young they ride. In the sweep of that steady, heroic stride.

Of the young bent down to the saddle as long ago. They are up and away by the Alamo—May answer and scurry and stand like men.

In the hour of their country's need again.

FATHER'S PERIL

What Would You Have Done Had You Been in His Place?

Just three or four time yellowed pages in an old colonial diary. How the manuscript came into my possession is immaterial. But here are two paragraphs: "February ye tenth, 1625. This day a most terrible thing happened to Father. It hath been a long, cold winter, and ye members of our little colony have suffered grievously, supplies being scant. Our leader being well nigh gone, my goodly father started forth in search of game. Of late he hath grown exceedingly difficult to obtain powder and lead. Father had but one charge left for his trusty blunderbuss; but, being a famous shot, he had no doubt that this would prove sufficient to bring down some wild creature that the household might be supplied with meat.

"He had wandered some way from ye settlement when he sighted a wild turkey perched on a limb. Drawing near, he took aim. At this moment a skulking savage leaped from behind a tree near by. An arrow hurtled past dear father's head, barely missing him. Quickly he turned his blunderbuss upon ye savage and prepared to fire.

"But ye thought came to him that his wife and children were in dire straits for food. Having but the one shot, what should he do? To slay ye savage would mean that ye turkey would escape. To shoot ye turkey would place father at ye mercy of ye cruel red-skin. Momentarily he hesitated; but, suddenly determining upon a bold course, he took steady aim, fired and slew ye—"

Here the manuscript breaks off. I'm sorry that I ever ran across the confounded thing.—Walter G. Doty in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Oddities of Taxation.

In England there have been many amusing taxes and more amusing evasions. At one time the horse was singled out as a peculiar victim, and the farmer evaded the obligation by riding his cow to market or by harnessing his wife to the cart alongside of a big dog to drag the produce to town. The tax on chimneys resulted in the destruction of many fine old fireplaces, and the tax on windows had the effect of making the houses look as if they had been boarded up and deserted. It also inspired the eyesight of hundreds of Englishmen.

The friends of Frank D. Whipple, local agent of the American Express Company who has been restricted to his home for several weeks by illness, are pleased to see him out again. Mr. Whipple will enjoy an extended leave of absence from his duties until he fully regains his health.

KILLED IN BOXING BOUT

Young Militiaman Dies From Fatal Punch in Stomach at Camp Spaulding.

Camp Spaulding, Headquarters First Infantry, Concord, July 14—Almost coincident with the receipt of the news that the regiment is to depart from Camp Spaulding on Thursday evening, occurred a deplorable fatality, costing the life of John Grant, aged 24, a member of Company 1, of Berlin. Grant met death in a friendly boxing match with a comrade.

Grant, who was a laborer at Berlin, and a Russian by birth, was one of the first to enlist when the call came for troops and he was well liked in the camp. He and Corporal Dossee, aged 21, of the same company, neither of whom knew anything about boxing, were inducted into the gloves about 8 o'clock and amid the banterage of their comrades of their comrades started to mix things up. Suddenly Grant was seen to stagger backward and finally to fall on his back in the company street.

The excited bystanders rushed to his aid but the Russian gasped heavily and in a few minutes was dead. Captain Walker and Captain Beckford of the medical corps were immediately summoned and worked over the prostrate man for an hour but without avail.

The occurrence was immediately reported to Major Russell Wilkins of the medical department and to Col. Hecley. The medical officers decided that death resulted from dilation of the heart, induced by excitement, as there was not a mark on the body of injuries or any mark that could have been caused by a fall. Dr. H. C. Connor, medical examiner for Merrimack county was notified and after his examination pronounced it a case of accidental death.

County Solicitor Murchie being out of town, Attorney General Tuttle at Manchester was notified and ordered an autopsy. Upon the finding of the surgeons will depend the necessity for a formal inquest.

Grant's sister Mrs. Mary M. K. Low of Berlin was notified and disposition of the body is undecided pending instructions from her.

MOUNTAINS OR HILLS AS YOU LOOK AT THEM

Anywhere in America. Mountains if you wish, or hills if the may insists, but scenic beauty anyhow.

"They came to the Delectable Mountains," are the words of delight that voice the greatest throbs of joy in Pilgrim's Progress.

Idea of scenic beauty are somehow bound up with mountains. A motorist's thought of picturesque tours always stages mountainous country. But mountains are hills, and hills are mountains as one views them. It is not an angle of altitude, but an angle of appreciative vision.

That your mountains, or your hills, wherever are nearest you, have the glories of highland, regardless of what footage the topographical may accord them, is the sermon being taught by the "National Touring Week" movement. Let the motorist take his automobile this vacation time and discover the truth and wisdom of this point of view.

"See America, first by seeing your own state first," is the sentiment that is going to make the citizen of this country look on the vistas nearest him with a different and better vision. The National Touring Week idea has caught the nation. Newspapers, automobile clubs, and automobile dealers, are echoing the call of the road. When August 6 dawns, thousands of motorists will be en route on the vacation motoring tours that are to make the ensuing week memorable in this nation.

From the Atlantic strand to the Pacific shore, automobilists are planning to take their vacations as motoring tours. "National Touring Week" (August 6 to 13) which is the official vacation of the American automobilist, will see 500,000 motor cars on the road.

HAPPENINGS AT GREEN ACRE

Saturday Evening Dances in the Eirean Promise to Be Big Social Events.

Many things in and around Eilat are taking on a new lease of life this summer. Above all, Green Acre seems to shine resplendent in her new diadem of electric lights, not only lighting up the inn and the Eirean hall in which are held the concerts, lectures, and the Saturday night dances, but also the road, which in the past has been such a dark barrier, is now at last well lighted. Owing to this and several other important reasons, the dances, which as usual are to be held on Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock, are expected to be really quite the events.

Last season, it will be remembered, several very fine dances, pageants, and folk dances were given under the direction of Miss Martin. She is on hand again for this year and will take charge of them, endeavoring to lift them to an even higher level of excellence. However, there is another matter which it is thought will particularly interest the friends of Green Acre as well as the hosts of friends of Mr. C. Mason Remey of Washington, D. C., who is visiting Green Acre in order to give several important lectures. He has also consented to take charge of some of the opening dances and costume balls. The first Saturday evening dance will be held in the Eirean hall at 8 p. m., July 15.

POLICE REFUSE TO TURN OVER PROPERTY

Manchester Doctor Claims Exeter Officers Won't Give Him Back Necktie.

Manchester, July 11.—Dr. N. D. Michou, with offices at 592 Elm street, Manchester, returned yesterday from Exeter and made some serious charges against Chief of Police Davis and one of the police officers of that town. Two weeks ago last Sunday Dr. Michou, his wife, his mother-in-law, his brother-in-law and sister-in-law figured in an automobile accident at Exeter. They were on their way to Dr. Michou's summer cottage at the beach when their car turned turtle and caught fire.

All of the occupants of the car were thrown out and somewhat injured. The baggage contents of the machine were stretched over the road and a valuable necktie was torn from Mrs. Michou's neck and lay near where she fell.

Dr. Michou claims the policeman in question took charge of his personal belongings and also picked up the necktie.

His visit to Exeter yesterday was for the purpose of obtaining his goods, but he says the Exeter police refused to surrender them unless he contributed $7. He asked why he should pay for their return but no explanation was forthcoming. He offered $4 all the ready cash he had with him, but he says this was refused. He promised to send the balance but that, he also says, was unsatisfactory. The Exeter police, he says, would not say why he should pay the specified amount and would not give him a receipt for it, even if he paid it.

Dr. Michou has placed the case in the hands of his attorney in this city, who has already started proceedings to recover the goods held. The necktie in the case, the doctor says, was made of about 25 "Napoleons," gold disks, made in the general form and size of $5 gold pieces.

PLACE HAYLANDS IN QUARANTINE

Concord July 11.—Nearly 200 acres of the choicest haylands in Dalton have been placed in quarantine by Commissioner Andrew L. Pelker of the state department of agriculture in the effort he is making to stamp out an dangerous recurrence of the anthrax epidemic among cattle which killed many valuable cows and caused the loss of thousands of dollars worth of hay harvested and in the barns.

The quarantining has been done with the utmost care and every effort has been made to deprive the owners of the hay on the land where there is an likelihood of infection. The land is chiefly low land, along the John river and the Boston and Maine and Maine Central railroads. In some cases it was necessary to quarantine cattle fields but in others the dividing line was drawn by Commissioner Pelker at points where the danger spots ended, so that some of the farmers will be able to cut out a portion of their grass.

The land that has been condemned will be burned over next fall, after the good hay has been harvested and it is hoped by Commissioner Pelker and the experts he has had advising him, that after this year the danger of infection will be passed.

Commissioner Pelker has made arrangements to burn a considerable quantity of hay now in barns, which was condemned at the time of the last outbreak of anthrax a few months ago. The barns will be thoroughly disinfected under supervision of the commissioner or his representative.

A VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES

Canterbury Man Held Up, Hit on Head and Auto Damaged by Militiamen.

Concord, July 14.—Edward C. Osgood of Canterbury was a victim of the rush orders consequent upon the orders for the departure of the First Regiment for the Mexican border.

With his wife he was returning in his automobile from Manchester to his home in Canterbury and had arrived at the lower bridge about the time the guard was put on. He was bowling along at a good clip when he was ordered to halt by the guard at the bridge. Failing to stop as quickly as required he was forcibly brought to a halt by three men on guard, one of them it is alleged, smashed the headlight of the auto with his bayonet, a second pierced the hood of the machine with his weapon, while a third struck Osgood over the head with an automatic revolver, making a bad gash.

Osgood's wife was wearing a garment of military cut and color and may have been mistaken for a soldier.

His trouble, however, was not yet over, for, on being allowed to proceed, he drove into Concord and was speedily held up for operating an auto without a headlight. He was released on making an explanation and finally reached a physician who took several stitches to close the gash in his scalp.

It is alleged that Osgood now expects the state or the government to reimburse him for damages to his auto if not to his person.

POLICE COURT.

Miss Cora Starky appeared in the municipal court today on complaint of Dr. B. R. Russ, a veteran of the Civil war, who conducts a saw filing establishment on Penhallow street. From the story of the veteran, Cora connected herself with $60 or more, his pension money. The job was pulled off on July 5. It appears that Cora was caring for the veteran in the capacity of a nurse, and on the date mentioned above he gave her some money to purchase supplies in the way of bandages, medicine, etc. He claims that she took three times what was necessary and got away with it. Cora denied it all and claimed to be absolutely honest in her money dealings with Russ. However, a friend of the veteran, who was on the scene at the time took the stand and told the court that he was gazing directly at Cora when she separated the Federal reserve notes from the old soldier's knapsack. Not only that, but he saw her quickly and quietly deposit the ostensible for concealment in the silk hosiery of her right limb. Again Cora said it was false but the court was convinced that the charge of larceny was correct and ordered her to recognize in the sum of $100 for the superior court in October. She was unable to produce the money and went to jail.

A HARD BLOW

For Postage Stamp Collectors in War Regulations

New York, July 14.—The European war has struck the postage stamp trade in the United States another severe blow, one which will cost American philatelic dealers thousands of dollars, it was learned here today. In England stamps were on July 1, placed under the ban as a luxury if imported from foreign countries and purchasers of the labels who live in that country have sent warnings to Americans not to make further shipments.

According to the information received here by Hugh Clark, a leading New York philatelist, new censorship regulations have been put into effect under which no more stamps may be sent out from England except through "licensed British dealers." Heretofore stamp dealers in that country have not required licenses in order to trade in the postage labels.

There has been no official ban against importing German, Austrian, and Turkish stamps into England, although it was learned today the Canadian government recently began turning back used postage stamps of the Central Powers when American dealers sent them to Canadian collectors.

CADDIE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

As Lad Falls Dead on Great Neck, L. I., Links, Society Women Pray.

Great Neck, L. I., July 11.—More than a score of society women including Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn, formerly Edna May, the actress, narrowly escaped death from lightning on the grounds of a golf club at Great Neck, L. I., late Thursday when Felix Jacobus, a caddie was struck and instantly killed within a few feet of them. As the body of the caddie was carried from the field, all the women in the party fell upon their knees and prayed.

The Great Neck tragedy occurred while Mrs. Lewisohn and Mrs. Chas. H. Clifford, wife of the president of the golf club were engaged in an exciting game. They were negotiating for position, when Jacobus, holding the tin, was hit and fell dead in front of them.

TEUTONS IN SEVENTH ASSAULT ON VERDUN

Germany Determined to Continue Operations There, Regardless of Her Critical Position on Other Fronts

Paris, July 13.—Dense German masses are storming the approaches to Fort Souville in the seventh great assault on Verdun since the battle for the fortress began 146 days ago.

The violence of yesterday's attacks furnish unmistakable evidence that Germany is determined to continue the attack on Verdun, regardless of her critical position on other fronts.

French military critics agreed on this point today after studying the reports from headquarters.

The present attack was begun Tuesday. The Germans had spent 15 days in preparation. They brought up new guns and trench mortars, shifted more troops from the west bank of the Meuse and hurried fresh supplies of ammunition to the Souville-Danlois section.

The French, ready to meet the shock turned loose a sheeted fire into the advancing German ranks and took terrible toll with the "15's." Throughout Tuesday night and all day the battle raged on the Souville-Danlois section, the French counter-attacking with great spirit.

Only at one point, near the intersection of the Fleury and Vaux roads, did the German attack gain any ground.

An intermittent cannonade occurred on the French front on both sides of the Somme last night, but there were no important actions, the war office announced today.

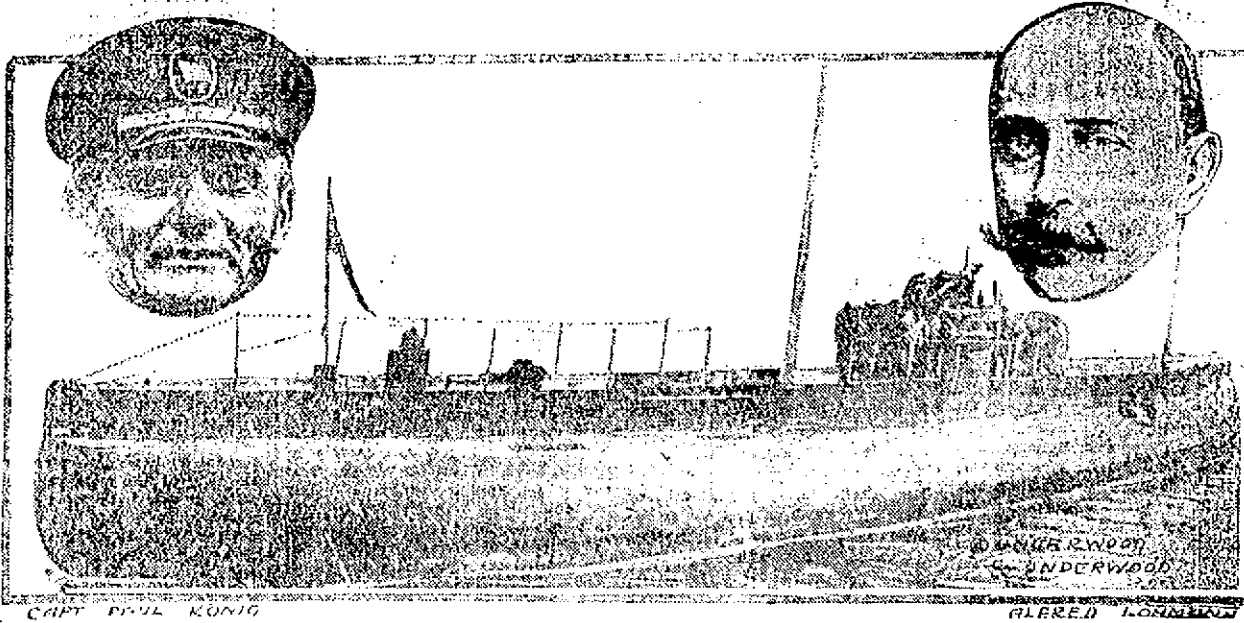

British Offensive Approaching Crisis

London, July 13.—The second phase of the British offensive is approaching a crisis in the battle northeast of Albert, where British troops are striving to advance two miles eastward to the heights of Martinpuich.

The Germans have thrown two whole army corps into action on both sides of the Albert-Bapaume road to defend the approaches to Bapaume. They are making the most savage counter attacks, particularly southeast of Contalmaison, where a German success would hold up the whole British advance.

German correspondents, admitting the power of the British offensive, claim that the attacking forces have suffered heavy losses comparable only to the casualties at Verdun. British correspondents report that the English losses have been severe only in the GERMAN MERCHANT SUBMARINE IN BALTIMORE HARBOR, CAPTAIN AND ORIGINATOR.

This shows the German merchant submarine anchored in Baltimore Harbor after her voyage of 4,000 miles from Bremen. DRAG-NET IS SPREAD FOR MISSING TRIO

Boston, July 13.—Search is being made for three persons against whom indictments were returned yesterday by the Suffolk grand jury on account of the death of Miss Margaret Ward of Peabody, who died from an alleged illegal operation.

Thus far the three have succeeded in eluding the authorities, and it is believed the police will have difficulty in locating them.

As the indictments were secret it is not known against whom the indictments were returned. For many days prior to the grand jury action, however, the police of New England cities and towns were asked to apprehend Mrs. Elizabeth G. Pittsfield of Roxbury from whose flat it is believed the dead girl was taken; her daughter, Marion Pittsfield, until recently employed in a Boston department store, and Mrs. Minnie Frothingham of 11 Alston street, west end.

Eight other persons who were indicted yesterday in connection with the case were arrested. They are: Atty. Charles R. O'Connell of Peabody, former representative and brother of Mrs. Frothingham. James O'Connell, Lynn barber. George A. Dardwell of Boston. Dr. John J. Shannahan of Peabody. Thomas J. Sexton of Peabody, chauffeur, who drove the automobile in which the Ward girl's dead body was being conveyed to the home of a relative when he and his companions were arrested.

Rhona Pittsfield, 19 years old. Geraldine Pittsfield, 16 years old. Margaret Stewart, 21 years old. The last three live at 42 Warren street, Roxbury. It is from this address the Ward girl is alleged to have been taken either after or before she died.

All had been admitted to bail early last night, except James O'Connell, the two Pittsfield girls and Miss Stewart. The four were locked up in the Charles street jail.

Mr. Ivory Emery, Mrs. Frank Getchell and Robert and Horace Billings motored to Newmarket on Thursday where they passed the day.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Childs and daughter Miss Edna of Brooklyn, N. Y., arrived on Thursday to pass the summer at the Parkfield hotel.

PRESIDENT HAS SERVED NOTICE ON "HYPHENS"

ISSUES WARNING TO NEWCOMERS TO THIS COUNTRY THAT LOYALTY IS EXPECTED AND DEMANDED.

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson Thursday served notice on "hyphens" and "new comers" that they must be loyal to the United States whether pleased with this country or not. He charged that political activity of any organization of naturalized Americans is "absolutely incompatible with the idea of loyalty."

The President addressed the citizenship convention called by bureau of naturalization of the Department of Labor to study best methods for teaching foreigners what is necessary to become a citizen.

President Wilson said in part:—"We have been disturbed recently by certain symptoms which have shown themselves in our body politic. Some naturalized Americans have gone so far as to draw themselves apart and have been more loyal to their native country than to America."

"They have even gone so far as to draw apart in spirit and in organization from the rest of us to accomplish some special object of their own. I am not going to utter any criticism of these people, but I want to say that such a thing is absolutely incompatible with the fundamental idea of loyalty, and that loyalty is not a self-pleasing virtue. I am not bound to be loyal to United States to please myself. I am bound to be loyal to the United States because I live under its laws and am its citizen, and whether it hurts me or whether it benefits me, I am obliged to be loyal."

"Loyalty means nothing unless it has at its heart the absolute principle of self-sacrifice. Loyalty means that you ought to be ready to sacrifice every interest that you have and your life itself, if your country calls upon you to do so, and that is the sort of loyalty which ought to be inculcated into these new comers, that they are not to be loyal so long as they are pleased, but that, having once entered into this sacred relationship, they are bound to be loyal whether they are pleased or not; and that loyalty which is merely self-pleasing is only self-indulgence and selfishness."

"No man has ever risen to the real stature of spiritual manhood until he has found that it is finer to serve some body else than it is to serve himself."

"These are the conceptions which ought to teach the newcomers to our midst and we ought to realize that the life of every one of us is part of the schooling and that we cannot preach loyalty unless we set the example; that we cannot profess the things with any influence upon others, unless we practise them also. This process of Americanization is going to be a process of self-examination, a process of purification, a process of redemption to the things which America represents and is proud to represent. And it takes a great deal more courage and steadfastness, my fellow-citizens, to represent ideal things than to represent anything else. It is easy to lose your temper, and hard to keep it. It is easy to strike and sometimes very difficult to refrain from striking, and I think you will agree with me that we are most justified in being proud of doing things that are hard to do and not the things that are easy.

"You do not settle things quickly by taking what seems to be the quickest way to settle them. You may make the complication just that much the more profound and inextricable, and, therefore, what I believe America should exalt above everything else is the sovereignty of thoughtfulness and sympathy and vision, as against the grosser impulses of mankind. No nation can live without vision, and no vision will exalt a nation except the vision of real liberty and real justice and purity of conduct."

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., July 13.—Work has been begun on the Kappa Sigma house here which is the first fraternity house in Durham to be built by a society. Several of the organizations have houses now but they were not built by the societies, and in most cases have originally private dwellings.

This new structure will be between the library and Fairchild Hall on the main street of the village. It will be a handsome colonial brick building of three stories and will house 21 men. There will be a room for fraternity meetings and general assembly rooms. The dining room, long a feature of fraternity buildings here will be conspicuous by its absence as the members intend to make use of the College Commons as soon as it is established.

The Kappa Sigma building which will be a very attractive addition to the campus will cost about $15,000, and its erection it is thought will probably be followed by the building of several others in the next few years.

The number of students enrolled for next year's freshman class continues to grow and today had reached a total of 174 of which 167 are four year students. This is a greater number than finally registered in the four year class a year ago.

W. H. Stevens has been named assistant professor of mechanical engineering to take the place of Prof. F. E. McKune, resigned. Professor Stevens is a graduate of Purdue and Kansas University and last year was an instructor at Purdue.

C. C. Whipple, graduate of Worcester Tech in the class of 1915 and an instructor there last year will be an instructor here in electrical engineering next year.

HOBNAILED SHOES FOR THE BOYS ON THE BORDER

The War Department has ordered 250,000 shoes of a new type for the U. S. regulars and militiamen in Mexican service, 20,000 of which have been delivered. All the troops on the border and in the interior of Mexico will be outfitted with these shoes just as soon as they reach the front. These shoes are used by the allies, though they were first used by the Turkish armies. They are hobnailed, as the photograph shows, whereas all of the shoes now in use by the army are smooth. A distinguishing feature of the new shoe, however, is that the leather is worn inside out, and is exceptionally soft. The shoe has no cap. The old shoes lasted barely three weeks in Mexico, their particular enemy being mud, which rapidly cuts them into shreds. The old shoe weighs two pounds and three ounces, while the new model weighs three pounds and seven ounces.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP OPEN TO STUDENTS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

SECRETARY OF DARTMOUTH COLLEGE ISSUES NOTICE FOR BOYS INTERESTED IN THE COMPETITION.

The Rhodes Scholarship, a scholarship to the value of three hundred pounds, tenable at the University of Oxford, England, for a period of three years, beginning from October, 1917, will be open for competition in the State of New Hampshire at the close of the present year. Similar scholarships will not be awarded for the years 1919, 1920 and 1922.

In behalf of the New Hampshire Committee of Selection of the Rhodes Scholars, Mr. Gray Knapp, secretary of Dartmouth College, has issued a bulletin which he has sent to all of the newspapers in the state so that students in all communities who are interested in the scholarship may be informed of what is expected of them. The bulletin issued by Mr. Knapp in part is as follows:

Competitors must be citizens of the United States between 19 and 25 years of age, and must, before the date of entry on residence at Oxford, have completed at least their second year at some regular degree-granting American University College. Candidates having their domicile in the state, and those who have received any large part of their education there are alike eligible.

The Qualifying Examination will be held on Tuesday, the 3rd, and Wednesday the 4th of October, 1916. A State Committee of Selection chooses the Scholar from among those who have passed the Examination. Application should be made to the Chairman of this Committee, President Ernest Martin Hopkins, Dartmouth College.

A memorandum giving further particulars may be obtained either from the Chairman of the Committee of Selection, or by communicating with the Officers of The Rhodes Trust, Seymour House Waterbury Place, London S. W.

The examination includes the following subjects: Arithmetic, either the elements or algebra; or the elements of geometry; Greek grammar; Latin grammar; translation from English into Latin prose; either unsurpassed (i. e. "at sight") translation from Greek and Latin or one Greek and one Latin book. A wide variety of choice in "books" is allowed. For example, a candidate could meet the requirements of the Greek and Latin "books" by passing examination on Xenophon's Anabasis 1-3 or 2-4 and Caesar's Gallic war, 1-1.

TO WORK FOR THE RED CROSS

Ladies of This City Will Make Hospital Supplies.

Every woman in Portsmouth and vicinity whether a summer visitor or an all the year resident, who is interested in making hospital outfits for American soldiers is cordially invited to meet with the local branch of the National Civil Federation at the Unitarian vestry on Tuesday mornings at ten o'clock throughout the summer months. The branch was formed at the home of Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Wednesday morning, with Mrs. H. E. Hovey as president; Mrs. A. C. Heffenger, secretary; and Miss Marie Johnson, 253 Middle street, treasurer. Matters of vital interest concerning the work of the national organization and of the welfare of the country were discussed, with the result that the branch decided upon the Red Cross work as the most imperative at the present time and later, as the local organization gains strength, other lines of work will, doubtless, be undertaken.

Mrs. Wendell presented to the ladies present the needs of the Red Cross Society and called attention to the fact that so great had been the response to the distress in Europe that American was but poorly prepared in case of disaster or calamity either to soldiers or civilians at home. A single hospital outfit was exhibited consisting of six sheets, six pillow covers, three pajamas, two large Turkish towels, four small towels, three face cloths, one pair slippers, two pairs of socks, one convalescent robe and the necessary furnishings for one hospital patient. Contributions of money for the purchase of material necessary for a number of outfits were pledged and the meeting adjourned to meet at the Unitarian vestry each Tuesday morning at ten o'clock throughout the summer months. The Tuesday morning meetings will be devoted to the making of garments for Quoniam and it is hoped that Portsmouth women will respond in large numbers in order that we may do our share toward meeting this real need. Contributions of money may be sent to the treasurer.

The committee is as follows: Miss Pauline Bradford, Mrs. John Templeman Coolidge, Mrs. Alfred Coolidge, Mrs. C. A. Harrington, Mrs. A. C. Heffenger, Mrs. Arthur Hill, Mrs. H. E. Hovey, Miss Marie Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Lobb, Mrs. James B. May, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Miss Susan J. Wentworth, Mrs. Mary L. Wood.

THE HERALD HEARS

That the management of the several local breweries and the Cooper's Union have not yet come to any agreement on the proposed wage schedule.

That Kittery was a lively village on Thursday night.

That there is some hot rivalry between real estate men at Hampton Beach.

That the excise commission has several applicants for the saloon business of the late J. J. Gibbons on Market street.

That another rumor relative to the paper mill is going the rounds.

That a well known local man will shortly enter the business of job training.

That the floating rubbish on the shores of the South Mill Pond should be cleaned up.

That it looks as if Portsmouth would send a live delegation to the next legislature.

That there is some talk of placing another big boat on the Piscataqua.

THE HERALD AD SURPRISED HIM

Joseph W. Hodgdon, the Congress street restaurant keeper, admits that he got one of the surprises of his life on Thursday. The surprise was the result of an advertisement which he placed in the Herald, "Cashier Wanted." Within a half hour after the Herald came from the press and up to late in the night he was busy answering the telephone and meeting people who read the ad. He estimates that he had no less than 25 calls in one hour. He has come to the conclusion that the Herald is the best advertising medium in Portsmouth. Try a Herald ad of any kind for results.

PLACED ON THE RETIRED LIST

Captain Albert L. Remick Was Member of Coast Guard Service 37 Years.

Captain Albert L. Remick, one of the best known members of the Coast Guard Service in New England, was retired Wednesday after 37 years of service. He became a member of the Rye Beach life saving crew in the latter part of the 70's under Captain Philbrick and his ability and bravery was so demonstrated that in a few years he was appointed keeper of the station, a position he faithfully filled for upwards of 30 years. During his long years of service he served under three superintendents, John M. Richardson of Portland, S. H. Harding of New Castle and S. R. Sands of this city. As a life saver, Captain Remick has a most excellent record. On several occasions before the Isles of Shoals station was established, he and his crew went off to the Isles and rendered assistance, on one occasion he took off the entire crew of a Gloucester fishing schooner that was wrecked at the Shoals. He also rescued the crew of the three masted schooner Glendon that was wrecked at Hampton Beach some years ago.

Captain Remick retired with the respect and best wishes of not only his superior officers but with the members of his crew, many of whom he had been associated with for years.
